

Cable from the fiber optic terminal box

Overview

Extending the fiber through the box makes use of a cable entry gland. Fasten the cable to the clamps or ties to assure the cable is immovable. Remove the cable jacket and buffer coating. FTTP or fiber To The Premises applications have reinforced the importance of reliable and stable fiber optic terminations. Good quality fiber laying and termination systems help achieve minimal back reflection and low signal loss. They also feature resistance to moisture, impact, chemical exposure. Fiber Termination Box, also known as FTB, typically consists of two main parts: the outer shell body and the adapter tray that protects the fiber connector points. It functions as a junction between the incoming fiber cable and the outgoing customer-side fiber cable, where one fiber can be spliced, patched.
