Key Takeaways

Treadwell Group NZ is a leading local manufacturer of fiberglass (FRP) cable trays in New Zealand, offering the EXduro™ range designed for harsh environments. Treadwell Group NZ – EXduro™ FRP Cable Trays

Treadwell Group manufactures fiberglass reinforced plastic (FRP) cable trays, ladders, ducts, and supports under their EXduro™ brand, specifically engineered for New Zealand and Australian conditions . These systems are:

- Corrosion-resistant, non-conductive, and lightweight, making them ideal for industrial, marine, chemical, and wastewater applications .
- Durable and fire-retardant, with UV stabilizers and low electrical conductivity for safety and long-term performance .
- Available in solid and ventilated trays, with pre-assembled fittings such as tees, crosses, bends, couplers, and reducers for faster installation .
- Designed for a 50-year service life, ensuring reliable cable protection and minimal maintenance .

- Compliant with NEMA 20C standards, supporting high load capacities and long spans . The EXduro™ system also includes peaked or flat FRP covers to protect cables from water and debris, and slotted marine rungs for secure cable fastening . Local manufacturing allows for shorter lead times and customization to meet project-specific requirements .

Other Cable Tray Options in New Zealand

While FDG Cable Tray offers a wide range of metal cable trays, ladders, and baskets, including pre-galvanized and hot-dip galvanized finishes, they do not specialize in fiberglass cable trays . Ideal Electrical Suppliers stocks various cable trays but primarily acts as a distributor rather than a manufacturer .

Summary

For fiberglass cable trays manufactured locally in New Zealand, Treadwell Group NZ is the primary option, providing high-performance, corrosion-resistant, and non-conductive FRP systems suitable for industrial and harsh environmental applications. Their EXduro™ range offers modular, customizable solutions with long-term durability and compliance with industry standards .
