Key Takeaways

Semi-circular cable trays typically range from €10 to €50 per unit for small PVC models, while larger metal trays and industrial-grade systems can cost significantly more depending on size and material. PVC Semi-Circular Cable Trays

For small, flexible PVC semi-circular cable covers, such as those used in residential or office settings, prices are around €10–€15 for a 2-meter length with dimensions approximately 14 mm wide and 10 mm high. These trays are easy to install with adhesive backing, protect cables from damage, and are suitable for 1-2 cables per duct. They are widely used in homes, offices, schools, and light industrial applications.

Metal Semi-Circular Cable Trays

For commercial or industrial applications, semi-circular cable trays are often made of steel, stainless steel, or aluminum. Prices vary based on load capacity, length, and finish (galvanized, powder-coated, or stainless). While exact prices are not listed in the sources, industrial-grade trays typically start around €50–€100 per meter for light-duty steel trays and can exceed €200 per meter for heavy-duty or corrosion-resistant systems. Accessories such as bends, risers, reducers, and covers may add to the total cost.

Factors Affecting Price

- Material: PVC is cheaper than steel or stainless steel.
- Length and Width: Longer or wider trays increase cost.
- Load Capacity: Heavy-duty trays for multiple or high-power cables are more expensive.
- Standards Compliance: Trays meeting DIN EN 61537, IEC, or NEC standards may cost more.
- Accessories: Covers, bends, and risers add to the overall price.

Purchasing Options

- Online retailers like Amazon offer small PVC semi-circular trays for home or office use .
- Specialized suppliers such as Ekabel24 or RS Components provide industrial-grade trays with technical datasheets and UK/EU delivery options . For precise pricing, it is recommended to request a quote from suppliers based on the required material, length, and load capacity, especially for industrial installations.
